Development Bank of Southern Africa FC And LC Ratings Lowered After Similar Sovereign Action; Outlook Neg

Overview

• On April 3, 2017, we lowered our foreign currency sovereign ratings on the Republic of South Africa to 'BB+/B' from 'BBB-/A-3' and our local currency sovereign ratings to 'BBB-/A-3' from 'BBB/A-2'.

• We equalize our ratings on the Development Bank of Southern Africa (DBSA) with those on the sovereign because we believe there is an almost certain likelihood that the South African government would provide timely and sufficient extraordinary support to DBSA if needed.

• We are therefore lowering our foreign currency ratings on DBSA to 'BB+/B' from 'BBB-/A-3' and our local currency ratings to 'BBB-/A-3' from 'BBB/A-2'.

• The negative outlook reflects that on South Africa, indicating that our ratings on DBSA will move in tandem with those on the sovereign, provided we continue to we assess the likelihood of government support as almost certain.

Rating Action

On April 6, 2017, S&P Global Ratings lowered its foreign currency issuer credit ratings on the Development Bank of Southern Africa Ltd. (DBSA) to 'BB+/B' from 'BBB-/A-3' and its local currency issuer credit ratings to 'BBB-/A-3' from 'BBB/A-2'. The outlook remains negative.

Rationale

The downgrade of DBSA follows a similar action on South Africa (see "South Africa Long-Term Foreign Currency Rating Cut To 'BB+' On Political And Institutional Uncertainty; Outlook Negative," published April 3, 2017, on RatingsDirect).

We equalize our ratings on DBSA with those on South Africa. This reflects our opinion that there is an almost certain likelihood that the South African government would provide timely and sufficient extraordinary support to DBSA in the event of financial distress.

Consistent with our criteria for government-related entities, including DBSA, we base our rating approach on our view of its:

• Critical role as one of the South African government's primary vehicles for promoting infrastructure development in the country's public and private sectors.

• Integral link with the South African government, through 100% ownership, ongoing government supervision, and capital injections when required.

Our assessment of the importance of DBSA's role for the government as critical is based on our view that DBSA remains one of the key vehicles of the government for delivering infrastructure development. We understand that DBSA's mandate is to focus on infrastructure financing and development in municipalities, public institutions, and other projects in South Africa and the region.

Within South Africa, DBSA is making efforts to increase its support to municipalities and public-sector projects. For under-resourced municipalities, DBSA provides technical assistance grants, capacity-building initiatives, and overall support of projects from initiation to final financing of fully fledged projects.

We continue to assess DBSA's stand-alone credit profile at 'bb-'. For more detail about the bank's stand-alone credit quality, see "Development Bank of Southern Africa 'BBB-/A-3' Ratings Affirmed; Outlook Negative," published Oct. 26, 2016.

Outlook

The negative outlook on DBSA reflects that on South Africa, indicating that the ratings on DBSA will move in tandem with those on the sovereign, provided we continue to assess the likelihood of extraordinary support as almost certain. We expect that DBSA will maintain its critical role for and integral link with the South African government.

Downward pressure on the rating could result from a stronger extension than we currently expect of DBSA's activities to countries outside South Africa or to the private sector, if the expansion abroad prompted us to revise down our assessment of DBSA's role for the South African government.

Upside rating potential for DBSA is limited by our long-term rating on South Africa, because we do not expect to rate DBSA higher than the sovereign.
