CLARIFICATION:

A Research Chair initiative is defined as a partnership between a public institution and a University for purposes of the enhancement of specific research objectives in line with specified themes, which in this instance is infrastructure development. There is no blueprint on the configuration and form of such an initiative and it differs from one institutional context to another in terms of size and funding arrangements, duration as well as focus areas. No one form of a Research Chair is lesser than another and the Research Chair designation depends on the predefined purpose/objectives.
