2. BACKGROUND

The DBSA is a Development Finance Institution (DFI) wholly owned by the Government of South Africa to promote economic development and growth, human and institutional capacity building for sustainable development projects and programmes in the African continent. Reporting to the Minister of Finance as the Executive Authority, the DBSA has its primary purpose firmly rooted in stimulating socioeconomic growth, given its infrastructure and capacity development mandate. The Bank's strategic thrust includes driving sustainable growth with development impact, providing integrated infrastructure solutions and ensuring both operational and financial sustainability.

The DBSA's value proposition lies in its mission "To advance the development impact in the region by expanding access to development finance and effectively integrating and implementing sustainable development solutions". It provides integrated and innovative solutions across its value chain; from project planning, preparation through to financing, to drive infrastructure delivery and development impact through its in- and outsourced capabilities both in South Africa and the rest of the continent. The Bank fulfils this function by acting as an agent mainly to governments, international agencies and private sector companies that do not have institutional presence in South Africa or are not able to create permanent capacity to deliver development initiatives. This is done with the intent to improve the lives of people through the development of social infrastructure while supporting economic growth through investment in economic infrastructure and fostering regional integration.
